

IABC/PRSA Landmarks of Excellence HALL OF FAME

Created in 1993, the Landmarks of Excellence Communicators Hall of Fame was designed to honor those local professionals who have made a lasting difference in the fields of public relations and communications. The contributions of inductees are an attribute to the impact of the individual, working in a profession that serves many. The professional stature and ethics of every inductee welcomed into the Hall of Fame is and should be far above the norm. Each recipient has achieved real results in his or her professional life and has repeatedly demonstrated exceptional talent, dedication, insight and commitment. This award is co-sponsored by the International Association of Business Communicators (Kentucky Chapter) and the Public Relations Society of America (Bluegrass Chapter).

THE HONOREE MUST HAVE:

- Minimum of 15 years experience in the communications/public relations fields
 - Demonstrated service to the community or a particular issue
 - Recognition as a role model
 - Record of mentoring to communicators/public relations professionals
 - Held a paid membership to IABC or PRSA
